Darlingest -

4/30/35 Tuesday

And very sweetest - and most splendid mother & mine! They arrived - oh they did indeed, in all their freshness this morning, before 8:30. And in the center of this rainy, dreary day - they sit now on my desk, delicate and lovely, and I can't be impatient with the day when there are flowers in it like that - and people in it like you to send them. Oh they are - beautiful.
Just as my tulips were separating from their stems & turning a well liked purple, so that I must discard them - long come May flowers - just as perfect in a simpler way - and more fragrant. I can even smell the woods with the flowers. Where did you get them?

And the fudge! Oh yes I know where you got them - (it - those - my English!) Only it's half gone already almost. I had been sort of hungry for candy for awhile - & we just had fruit for dessert this soon - so! I've been going with Helmi's help. I don't believe you've ever made better honestly - it melts without thought!

I curse while I have another piece - I can't leave it alone!

I'll send the blouse & suit today.
Crew yesterday was fun - then the picture of Vasso sp. chair was taken - incidentally the dial is " --- (3 other numbers I can't remember but will send you.) Dorothea says somebody down the street has a great wave set - her family knows them.

Pik party for crew was fun - Little was there - she had made the record & was very proud.

I've got to practice w my hoop - tomorrow the day we roll in. Lots was is coming up to be given the honor of sewing my gown up - she's elated! How nice that some jobs are honorary.

I'm starting my novel today - heaven help me! If heaven doesn't, Judge & Mayflower's will! Bless you a thousand fold Ginger
